Here are some questions to address as you develop your sustainability plan.

- ① Are your mission, goals, objectives, and logic model still relevant? Do changes need to be made?
- ② How successful have you been in meeting your goals and objectives? Which program components were most effective, and which might need to be modified?
- ③ Is your organizational structure and staffing appropriate for the continued operation of your site? What is your level of collaboration with your internal and external partners?
- ④ Is your budget sufficient to cover costs in the future? To what extent are different program components sharing expenses?
- ⑤ To what extent are your marketing and public relations effective in publicizing your site? Who is receiving information about you? What communication vehicles have been most successful?
